TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE.

Guildford. Abbot's Hospital. A stately and picturesque red brick building, founded in 1619 by George Abbot, Archbishop of Canterbury. He was a native of Guildford, born in 1562. He was Bishop of Coventry 1609, Bishop of London 1610, and within a year was Archbishop of Canterbury. "My affection leading me," he says, "to the town of Guildford, where I was born, I thought upon the erection of a hospital there, which I have dedicated to the Blessed Trinity."

(FOR ADDRESS ONLY.)
